“

AdaptiBar was extremely helpful. As someone that struggles with multiple-choice I cannot recommend it enough. They use licensed questions and provide detailed, logical feedback on why you chose the correct or wrong answer. I have already recommended it to all of my friends that unfortunately did not pass on their first try.

The screenshot displays the 'Self-Directed Practice' section of the AdaptiBar writing guide. It features a legal case study titled 'Test Drive Q3 - Torts' with a redacted name. The case involves a 10-year-old child, Dennis, who threw an apple at his neighbor, Margaret, and then pointed a squirt gun at her. The text is annotated with red boxes and numbers 1, 2, and 3, corresponding to the 'Rule Funnel #1' on the right. The rule funnel lists four potential torts: 1. Assault, 2. Intentional Act, 3. Apprehension of Imminent Harmful or Offensive Contact, and 4. Words Alone do not Suffice. Below the case study, two questions are posed: '1. Does Margaret have a viable tort claim against Dennis? Explain.' and '2. Does Dennis have a viable tort claim against Margaret? Explain.' The interface includes navigation tabs for 'Guided Practice', 'Self-Directed Practice', and 'Incomplete Essays', along with a toolbar for editing and a 'Remaining' indicator.
