The NextGen UBE, developed and administered by the National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE), is designed to assess a comprehensive range of essential lawyering skills. It focuses on a carefully curated set of fundamental legal concepts and principles that are crucial for modern legal practice.

Currently in development, the NextGen UBE is scheduled to launch in select U.S. jurisdictions in July 2026.

Format + Time Allocation

The NextGen UBE is nine hours long and will take place over a day and a half, with two three-hour sessions on day one and one three-hour session on day two. Each jurisdiction may choose to include state specific law component on day two or a separate day at their choosing.

The summer exam takes place on the last consecutive Tuesday and Wednesday in July, and the winter exam takes place on the last consecutive Tuesday and Wednesday in February.

Day 1:

- Three-hour question set
- Lunch break
- Three-hour question set

Day 2:

- Three-hour question set
- Lunch break (if applicable)
- Jurisdictions' local law component (if applicable)

Question Types

The NextGen UBE will include three question formats: stand-alone multiple-choice, integrated question sets, and performance tasks.

- Multiple-Choice Questions: Approximately 40% of the exam will focus on stand-alone multiple-choice questions. These will feature four to six answer options, with one or more correct responses.
- Integrated Question Sets: Approximately 25% of the exam time will be spent on integrated question sets, which blend multiple-choice questions with short-answer responses.
- Performance Tasks: Approximately 33% of the exam time will be devoted to longer performance tasks. Performance tasks pose a question or series of questions about a single client matter.

Scoring

The NextGen UBE will feature a variety of question formats (of which, sample questions can be reviewed on the NCBE website). Machine-scored items, such as multiple-choice questions, will be evaluated by the NCBE, while bar examiners in each jurisdiction will continue to grade the constructed-response questions.

These changes are significant enough to necessitate the introduction of a new scoring scale. Official NextGen UBE scores will be reported as a single number on a scale from 500 to 750. Each jurisdiction will establish its own passing score in this range. The NCBE has released a recommended minimum passing score range from 610 to 620. Of the jurisdictions adopting the NextGen UBE, the following have released minimum passing scores.

- 610: Missouri, Washington
- 612: Guam
- 616: Connecticut, Kentucky, Maryland
- 620: Oregon

Scoring Portability

The NextGen UBE will offer portable scores for jurisdictions that choose to recognize them. However, jurisdictions can still administer the exam without being required to accept scores from other regions.

The following subjects are tested on the NextGen UBE:

Foundational Concepts and Principles

- Civil Procedure
- Contract Law

Why More Students Trust BARBRI

BARBRI has helped more students achieve their dream of becoming a licensed U.S. attorney than all other courses combined. Here's what a few had to say.

“ BARBRI was an essential part of my success on those exam days. From day one, BARBRI was a great primer to subjects I'd forgotten. The progress tracking tools kept me engaged throughout the study process. I was blown away by the MBE Review lectures; those professors knew exactly what to expect on the bar. I definitely put in the work, but the course was worth every penny!

Sean T., University of Texas School of Law

“ BARBRI is spot-on in its MBE practice questions and practice essays. It's shockingly accurate. This speaks to BARBRI's experience and longevity. On the MBE — and I can speak to three administrations in three different states — BARBRI has clearly figured out what the bar exam questions look like and the patterns you'll encounter.

C. Thea Pitzen, Emory Law

“ Once I accepted that I could trust the BARBRI Bar Review course, I stopped asking why... I stopped asking whether I should take another course on top of BARBRI. The answer is, if you do what they assign, it is NOT necessary....I trusted the program and so should you. It works. I am living proof as I passed three bars by trusting BARBRI and I am just a normal person.

Gregory R., Temple University School of Law

“ Because I trusted in BARBRI and followed my Personal Study Plan, I owned the bar. After seeing incredibly smart, successful law students fail the bar, I knew I needed BARBRI to pass on my first try. BARBRI's unique Personal Study Plan is amazing. Each day, the plan tells you exactly what to do. If I was caught up on assignments I did extra practice essays, practice MPTs or practice MBE questions. Some days were a little shorter and some were longer, but I never had a single late night studying for the bar exam with BARBRI. BARBRI gave me the structure, knowledge, and tips to own the bar, and I did!
